

WAS GABO AN IRISHMAN?

BUY WAS GABO AND IRISHMAN?

Octavio and the Witch

Barry Max Wills

The General in my Labyrinth

Richard McColl

Si Dios quiere

Courtenay Strickland

Was Gabo an Irishman?

Caroline Doherty de Novoa

The Banana Republic of Urabá

Gwen Burnyeat

Echoes of Solitude

Emma Newbery

Chasing Butterflies

Victoria Kellaway

Let Him Rest

Juan Manuel Rodríguez

The First Chapter

Karen Attman

In Bogota's Cathedral, a Spanish humanitarian worker attends Gabriel García Márquez's funeral without a body, as a storm of yellow butterflies swirls outside the main plaza.

In the jungle, an English anthropologist finds a community fighting to survive in peace.

In the Andes, an Australian farmer faces a guava-throwing witch.

This anthology, coordinated by C. Doherty de Novoa, V. Kellaway and R. Mc Coll, gathers 26 essays by writers who have lived in Colombia.

Big Papa's Funeral

Jordi Raich

Car Horns and Cacophony

Naomi Dalton

Love, Cholera and Madness

Colin Post

Growing up with Gabo

Clara Irene Reyes

A Fine Beast of a Woman

Sarah Duncan

Of Love and Other Demons

Caroline Doherty de Novoa

A Costeño Conversation

Charis McGowan

My Cursed Profession

Richard McColl

Conjuring a Storm

Asier Santillán Luzuriaga

My Vallenato Love Affair

Victoria Kellaway

Many Years Later

Peter Dale

Bewitched in Santa Marta

Camille Mansell

Over to you, Chaps

Kevin Howlett

It Rained for Four Years

Fetze Weerstra

The Scribe with Nine Lives

Jessica Wong

Blame it on Bananas

Tim Buendía

The Guy Who Died

Tara Daze

Filled with magical rain, young lovers, grumpy old men, armed conflicts, false positives, music, politics, madness and enigma, these stories are very Colombian and universal at once.

Available in paperback and Kindle edition you can read on any device.

